PRESS RELEASE FROM THE ACTING PREMIER, MR. D. CORCORAN.

5.12.73

South Australia's Cabinet Ministers will vote Yes - Yes in Saturday's referendum.

All said they firmly believed the Australian Government should be given powers to control prices and incomes.

Without these powers talk about controlling inflation was 'just words', they maintained.

The Acting Premier, Mr. Des Corcoran, said these powers were absolutely necessary.

"The Australian Government's case is being opposed by an exceptionally well-funded No campaign which aims not to convince but to confuse."

"Some television advertising in recent days has gone so far as to suggest that the South Australian Premier objects to more power for Canberra."

"This was based on one single item of dispute over one specific matter - wine taxes."

"I can say on behalf of the Premier, myself and all our colleagues that we understand what the Australian Government needs to deal with inflation, and we support a Yes - Yes vote."
